Pursuant to Department of Finance (DOF) Regulations No. 1, in relation to Section 282 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, a qualified Informer shall be rewarded in a sum equivalent to ten percent (10%) of the revenues, surcharges or fees recovered and/or fine or penalty imposed and collected or One Million Pesos (P1,000,000) per case, whichever is lower.

SECTION 1. Objectives.

- (a) To provide guidelines, rules and procedure in the filing of Confidential Information for violations of the NIRC of 1997, as amended;

The format of the duly sworn Confidential Information shall be in accordance with the sample attached hereto as Annex "A".

SECTION 5. Requisites of a Valid Confidential Information.

Pursuant to Section 282 of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, a Confidential Information shall be treated as valid only if it meets ALL the following requisites:

(a) The Informer is not disqualified as provided under Section 3 of this Order.

Aside from stating his name and address, the Informer's duly sworn Confidential Information shall definitely state that he is not related within the sixth (6th) civil degree of consanguinity to any official or employee of the BIR, or any other public official or employee. Otherwise, his Confidential Information shall be treated as invalid. If the Informer withheld such information in his Confidential Information and as a result of which he was paid the Informer's reward, he shall, upon discovery of such fact, be liable to the penalty of perjury and, in addition, he shall also be required to restitute to the BIR the amount of reward wrongfully obtained, inclusive of the legal interest thereon.

(b) The Informer voluntarily provides sworn information on the tax fraud or violation of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, allegedly committed by the denounced taxpayer.

The facts mentioned in the information constituting the alleged tax evasion or violation of the NIRC of 1997, as amended, must be definite, concise and credible, and not merely a general statement. It must specify: 1) the name & address of the taxpayer committing the violation; 2) taxable period when the fraud or violation was committed; 3) the internal revenue law allegedly violated; 4) the address of witnesses, if any; and 5) other facts pertinent to the violation.

Also, it must be supported by "substantial evidence" or that amount of relevant evidence which a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to justify a conclusion, such as the following documents:

1. BIR's Certificate of Registration;
2. Income Tax Returns;
3. Deed of Absolute Sale;
4. License to Operate Business in the Philippines, as issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC);
5. General Information Sheet (GIS) obtained from the SEC;
6. Audited Financial Statements; and

The foregoing documents and other "substantial evidence" to be submitted by the Informer must consist of certified true copies. For this purpose, a certified true copy is a copy which is authenticated and signed by the authorized officer of the agency having custody of the original thereof. However, for purposes of evaluation, mere photocopies of documents which are within the custody of the denounced taxpayer (i.e. private records) may be accepted.

If the Informer does not have possession or control of such documents, records, or books but he has knowledge of the person who has the custody, possession or control thereof, or the place where they are kept, he shall state in his sworn information the person who has the possession thereof and/or the location where such documents, records and books are kept.

(c) The said information is not yet in the possession of the BIR.

In the course of the evaluation of the Informer's Confidential Information, the Chief, Prosecution Division or the Chief, Legal Division, as the case may be, shall determine from the records of the BIR whether the information being submitted is already reasonably in the possession of the BIR [e.g. the information offered by the Informer is already available from the BIR's Third Party Information (TPI) System or the same is of public knowledge as when it is already the subject of a newspaper publication or report, television or radio broadcast, etc.], or will reasonably come into the possession of the BIR in the course of its operations.

Unless it is established that the information offered by the Informer is not available from the records of the BIR, the information shall not be treated as valid.

(d) The said information does not refer to a case already pending or previously investigated or examined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue or any of his deputies, agents or examiners, or by the Secretary of Finance or any of his deputies or agents.

Any information provided in the said Confidential Information, which had already been filed with the Department of Finance and any of its attached agencies, including the BIR, shall not be treated as a valid Confidential Information.
